Thriveworks in Austin, TX for Child and Adolescent Therapy/Counseling. You made it through the middle-of-the-night feedings, toddler temper tantrums and the back-to-school blues. North York General Hospital offers two programs for eating disorders: one for adolescents and one for adults. Adolescent Eating Disorders Program North York General Hospital's Adolescent Eating Disorders Program, offered by our Maternal, Newborn and Paediatric Care Program, provides assessment, diagnosis and treatment for children and teenagers between the ages of 12-18 with an eating disorder. North York General Hospital's Child and Adolescent Eating Disorders Program provides comprehensive assessment and treatment of eating disorders. We treat children and adolescents up to the age of 19. N times past, it was generally thought that only someone who was "crazy," or someone who had a "nervous breakdown," had reason to see a psychologist. Today, psychologists still treat serious mental disorders, but they also can provide services for other reasons as well.
